WHEREAS, the present municipal building of Roxas, Oriental Mindoro constructed more than thirty years ago from semi-permanent materials had for years endured the battering of the elements of nature, reducing it to its now depreciated state;

WHEREAS, said weather-beaten municipal building had from time to time undergone several major repairs so as to be of continuous use and service to the government employees and to the general public transacting business thereto;

WHEREAS, aside from the aforementioned conditions, the Roxas municipal building is relatively small to conveniently accommodate the employees of the local and national offices it presently houses;

WHEREAS, it is an accepted fact that one of the most important factors for productivity of employees to maximize effective and efficient service and to harness improved and better performance is to have the physical surroundings, the buildings, the rooms, the furnitures and fixtures - very conducive to working conditions; and

WHEREAS, the present municipal officials and employees as had those of the past administration, have expressed their ardent and fervent desire, hope and dream of a day when a more dignified, presentable and impressive structure of a municipal building shall be erected in the place where the present building now stands.
